TUBERCULOSIS SOCIETY

Annual Report of Executive Secretary to Organization.

TELLS OF WORK DONE.

The Society is Divided into Departments so that Work can be Handled Easily.

PLANS FOR THE COMING YEAR

The report of the Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis has been issued by the executive secretary, Wallace Hatch. The headquarters of the society are at Philadelphia, and from there the work is carried on throughout the state. In the campaign against the great white plague the society has five agencies, namely:

A bureau of information, established for the benefits of patients, the friends of patients, physicians, institutions and organizations an educational campaign conducted through co-operation with churches, schools, factories, stores, fraternal organizations, clubs, etc., by means of lectures, circulars and special activities; an employment exchange to secure employment and after care for convalescent and arrested cases; tuberculosis classes intended to give curative treatment to patients at home, and a tuberculosis exhibit which should be the center for preventive work in the different cities.

The report gives a careful review of the results obtained through each one of the departments. The bureau of information has gathered the essentials of the material obtainable in and around Philadelphia and this has been carefully tabulated. The educational campaign has developed into a bureau of co-operation, and along this line 141 formal lectures have been given, in addition to a still larger number of talks which could not well be recorded.

Also 163,000 circulars have been distributed. The work of the society was heartly endorsed at the last annual meeting of the Pennsylvania state Federation of Labor and the officers instructed by the convention to render whatever aid possible to the society. Owing to the lack of funds the work of the employment exchange could not be carried on effectively. The tuberculosis classes have been established in two of the churches and have from 15 to 25 patients who are given weekly instruction. The tuberculosis exhibit was a success and was visited by over 110,000 people. The plan under which the exhibit is sent out is for the local organization to guarantee expenses for the exhibit and the demonstrator. An extensive outline is given with many suggestions for the coming year. Among them are the endorsement of the work of Dr. Dixon. The report advocates the increasing the membership of the society.

The report says that one out of every seven and one-half deaths is caused by tuberculosis.

Here's Where You Can Boost.

All Bellefonte people are looking forward to Friday and Saturday evenings of this week when the Academy minstrels will appear at the opera house. Those who are taking part in the production, show great talent for the work and it promises to be one of the best minstrels of home and local talent ever given in Bellefonte. A surprise awaits all who attend. The singing is of a very high order and the jokes are new and catchy. The proceeds of these minstrels will go to the athletic field fund and when you attend the minstrels at the opera house on Friday or Saturday evening you get your money's worth in high class entertainment and you are aiding in the establishing of an up-to-date athletic field, something that Bellefonte has needed for some time.

The Academy students deserve much credit for the strenuous efforts they have put forth to make the minstrels a success. They are helping to bring about the athletic field which they use for themselves a short time and then are gone, leaving it for others. Then it is up to the Bellefonte people to assist all they can for with them it is a permanent thing.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS.

Council No. 1344 of That Order was Organized in Bellefonte on Sunday.

Sunday was a gala day at the St. John's Catholic church in Bellefonte and one that will long be remembered by those who participated in the services and ceremonies. The occasion which made the day so notiable among the Catholic brethren was the organization of a council of the Knights of Columbus. This fraternity is composed of the male members of the Catholic church and is similar in its organization to other fraternal societies. About fifty-five names were enrolled at Sunday's sessions.

The institution of the Bellefonte Council was not only a local affair but brought to Bellefonte a large delegation of visiting Knights. Special trains were run over the Central Railroad of Pennsylvania and over the Bald Eagle Valley railroad. Large delegations were present from Williamsport and Tyrone. Among the other councils which sent representations to Bellefonte to assist in and witness the cermonies incident to the institution of the Bellefonte council were Renovo, St. Marys, Altoona, Johnstown, Ebensburg, Harrisburg, Lancaster, and Philadelphia.

Altogether there were about 400 visiting Knights in Bellefonte.

The Williamsport delegation about 100 strong arrived about noon over the Central railroad and the Tyrone and main line representations came in over the Bald Eagle Valley road, and arrived in Bellefonte at 1.30.

In the morning Father McArdle celebrated high mass which was followed by an address on the Knights of Columbus by Father Kelley of the K. of C. A number of prominent official Knights were present, among them being State Deputy Patrick H. Lynch, of Philadelphia, supreme officer of the state who had charge of the ceremonies.

The first degree was given by the Tyrone council while the Williamsport council had charge of the second degree work, District Deputy James E. Gibbons and staff, of Williamsport had charge of the exemplification of the third degree and ceremonies, and were ably assisted by District Deputy O'Laughlin, of Clearfield.

A very enjoyable feature of the day was the social session in the evening where the members of the newly instituted council mingled with their guests with freedom and words of good cheer. Address were made by District Deputie Lynch and Gibbons and others of the K. of C.

Delightful refreshments were served by the ladses of the St. John's parish. The new order begins under the most auspicious circumstances and other members are expected to join with those who were initiated at the organization on Sunday.

The visiting Knights returned to their respective homes on the specials after the adjournment about 8.20.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing term. Grand Knight, Joseph M. Brockerhoff; Deput grand Knight, Philip Beezer; chaplain, Father McArdle; chancillor, Harry E. Fenlon; warden, Joseph M. Heinle; treasurer, Michael Hazel; financial secretary, Wm. Howley; recording secretary Stanley F. Plachecki; trustees, Joseph Ceader, J. C. Row, and C. M. Parrish; physician, Dr. L. R. Tryon; advocate and lecturer, Thomas J. Sexton; inside guard, Geo. Brown; outside guard, Wilford I. Miller.

RUNAWAY TRAIN KILLS SEVEN

Frightful Accident Occur-Near Laquin Wednesday Morning.

ELEVEN ARE INJURED

Bolt Drops from Eccentric and Engineer Loses Control of the Engine.

INJURED TAKEN TO WILLIAMSPORT

Seven Italians are dead and eleven are in the Williamsport hospital badly injured, the results of a car and engine running away on a log railroad of the Laquin Lumber company, three miles west of Laquin at 8 15 o'clock Wednesday morning. The terrible mishap that resulted in such a harvest of death and infliction of severe injuries on so many workmen was the result of a bolt having dropped from the eccentric of the engine, thus placing the reverse lever out of operation, so that on a steep grade the engineer was unable to control the engine

A mile from where the engine began its wild dash at a point near Whalen, Bradford county, a throw-off switch is located at the intersection of the log road with the Susquehanna & New York Railroad tracks. A flat car on which there were about 25 Italian workmen rammed into this with terrific force and was derailed. As it left the track its load of human freight was hurried with violence to the railroad track or the ground on either side of the track. The car's derailment resulted in the almost instant death of the four Italians.

As the flat car left the track it in some manner threw off the derailer and the engine passed into the S. and N. Y. track without leaving the rails. It was this that resulted in the horrible deaths of four men in almost a twinkling. The four that were killed outright had been thrown upon the rails and were caught by the engine's wheels. Their bodies were badly mutilated, one trunk being completely severed, one man having the top of his head cut off, and the other two being almost a terribly mangled.

A relief train was hastened to the scene of the accident from Ralston and the injured men hurried to the Williamsport hospital. The fireman on the engine escaped injury. Among the injured is Antonio Gerard, foreman of the ill-sated crhw.

Complaint Against Children.

Residents in the vicinity of Spring and Bishop streets are complaining of being greatly annoyed by the children in that section. For some time it has been customary for them to ring door bells and rap on the front doors and escape to some hiding place before any one gets to the door. The people are getting tired of these pranks and unless the parents of children persuade them to desist from such an annoying practice they will be dealt with in a manner not altogether pleasant to the parents or children.

The curfew ordinance is a good thing and should be enforced and vigorously at that. The police claim that they make their rounds regularly but the children are very wise and will run to their homes to elude the officers and then come out again when they have passed. This is entirely the fault of the parents and if a few of the wily boys were taken into custody as an example it would be a lesson to both parents and children.

Bellefonte Hospital Benefit.

The expectations of the Bellefonte audience were fully realized in the Song Recital given Friday evening by Miss Isabel Buchanan vocalist and Miss Rebecca Lyon accompanist's, for the benefit o the hospital at this place.

Miss Buchanan interpretation of her varied and difficult programme was of the highest artistic excellence. There are few public singers capable of giving such a performance.

The perfection of her method was shown in the increasing brilliancy, sweetness, and resonance of her voice, through the successive numbers on her programme. She was most ably assisted by her accompanist Miss Lyon whose performance while graceful and finished was sympathetic and in perfect accord with the singer. The large audience showed its appreciation by long and continued applause.

THE PIG ROAST.

The Fire Laddies of the Logan Hose Company Enjoy a Feed.

On Thursday evening April 23, as jolly a bunch of fellows as ever came together "skidooed" around to the Public building on East Howard street where they enjoyed a good old fashioned "pig roast" one of the kind you read about. They were the members of the Logan Steam Fire Engine Company and a few invited guests and numbered about sixty in all.

Ten o'clock was the hour set for the feed but it was nearly half past ten when "Billy" Doll arrived with two pigs red hot and just out of the oven of his bakery. The hungry horde gathered in the basement hall which was tastefully decorated for the occasion with flags and bunting and where long tables were placed laden down with all kinds of good things such as bread, peas, corn, mashed potatoes, celery, onions, olives, pickles, etc. The pigs were done to perfection and it made your mouth water to look at them. The carving was done by John L. Dunlap who is an old hand at the business and who saw to it that everyone present got a big piece of pig. Hot coffee was served with the supper.

While the supper was going on and for several hours after Christy Smith's famous orchestra discoursed delightful music which added a great deal to the success of the evening.

After the inner man was satisfied Col. E. R. Chambers, who was toast master for the occasion, rapped for order and called on some of those present for a few remarks. Among those who responded were Henry C. Quigley, Dr. M. J. Locke, H. J. Jackson, John L. Dunlap, Thomas Beaver, R. B. Taylor, William A. Brown and E. C. Tuten.

Those in charge and to whom credit is due for the success of the evening were Joe Shaughensy, who was really the prime mover in the affair, assisted by Harry Gehret, John Anderson, Fred Ress, Frank Shugert, John Trafford and John Morrison.

Willis J. Weber.

Willis J. Weber, one of Milestownship's influential citizens, died at his home in Rebersburg Wednesday morning at 2.45 o'clock, of apoplexy. Deceased was aged about 61 years. He attended church as usual on Sunday and after returning home complained of not feeling well, and shortly afterward received the stroke which resulted in his death at the time stated. He was unconscious from the time he was stricken till he passed away.

Surviving him are his wife and eight children as follows: Clayton, of Renovo; Charles F., of Philadelphia; Mrs. Elmer Miller, of Smullton; Mrs. Maude Kuhn, of East Port, Pa.; Mrs. Ada Bierly and Mrs. Lottie Bierly, of Rebersburg, and Clarence and Roy at home.

Funeral services were held Saturday forenoon, and conducted by Rev. F. Wetzel. Interment was made in the Union Cemetery at Rebersburg.

Touring in an Auto

Five officers of the Bell Telephone Company were in Bellefonte Friday forenoon looking over the field of the improvements that company contemplates making in and around Bellefonte this summer. These gentlemen are making a tour of their lines throughout this section of the state traveling in a large automobile which enables them to inspect the lines whenever they follow the public highways. It is expected that many improvements will be made during the summer, among them being new lines. These will be laid in conduits which will do away with many of the poles in town.

Harvey M. Witherite.

Harvey M. Witherite, an enterprising and well known citizen of Snow Shoe died at his home in that place Saturday forenoon at 9 oclock, aged 68 years. The deceased was a veteran of the Civil war, having served in Co. F 200th regiment Pa. Vol. Inft. For the past 45 years he has been a resident of Snow Shoe, and before it was created into a borough served the township in the offices of road supervisor and overseer of the poor. When the borough of Snow Shoe was erected a short time ago he was appointed tax collector, which office he filled at the time of his death.

Funeral service were held Tuesday forenoon at 11 o'clock and were conducted by Rev. Kelsey, pastor of the M. E. church. At the Askey cemetery where interment was made, the services were conducted by the Order of United American Mechanics of which he had been a member for a number of years.

HEAD CRUSHED BY BUMPERS

Brakeman on Special Train Loses His Life

HAPPENED AT MILTON

Frank Keiser Met a Horrible Death While in the Act Of Coupling Cars

WAS A WELL KNOWN YOUNG MAN

While acting as brakeman on the special Odd Fellows' train Tuesday morning, George Keister, a son of Reading car inspector, Frank Keister, of Milton, met a horrible death while in the act of coupling cars at Walnut street crossing in Milton. While the train was waiting for the excursionists it had been cut at Broadway and also at Walnut street. In making the coupling the unfortunate young man got under the cars. It is supposed that he thought his head was below the bumpers, but if that was the case he had made a fearful miscalculation, and one that cost him his life.

When the bumpers came together they caught the upper portion of his head cutting it off as though it had been done by an axe, and scattering his brains over the track. Death, of course, was instantaneous.

The deceased was a young man of about twenty-one, with a promising future. He was well known and very popular with the Reading trainmen and it was his ambition to work his way up in the company's service.

STATE'S FINE BASE BALL TEAM

Have Started a Fine Winning Streak on its Late Trip

The Penn State Baseball team has just arrived home from a very victorious trip having won four games out of five played on the trip and that defeat was nothing to their discredit it being by the champion Williamsport Tri-State team on their home grounds by the close score of four to two.

From Williamsport they went to Mercersburg and defeated the fine Mercersburg Academy team, one of the best Academy teams in the state, by the score of 8 to 1.

At Charlottesville, Va., they defeated the University of Virginia by the easy score of 9 to 5 and Virginia just defeated University of Penn. 7 to 5.

Then coming to Carlisle played the Indians a hard game winning by the easy score of 4 to 0 making 13 hits off there best pitcher while the Indians could make but three off the Penn. State man. The next day also at Carlisle they defeated the Dickinson College nine in a thirteen inning game by the score of 16 to 8 making 8 runs in the 13th inning.

This is certainly a fine beginning and it is prophesied by the old ball fiends that they won't lose another game this season having one of the best amateur teams in the country with both good hitters as well as players and two fine batteries.

EDUCATIONAL MEETING.

Sate Commission Holds Big Conference in Altoona.

PROMINENT SPEAKERS

Make addresses of Importance along Educational Lines at Meeting on Thursday

DAY AND EVENING SESSION HELD

A meeting of immeasurable import ance in its bearing on the future pro gress of our great commonwealth, in many ways, was held in the high school auditorium, of Altoona, yesterday. Much interest was manifested by those in attendance in the various problems that were presented for considerations The meeting was one of a series held by the state educational commission, appointed last October by Governor Stuart, in compliance with a joint resolution of the state legislation, for the purpose of revising and collating the laws relating to the public schools of the state and for the further purpose of suggesting new legislation that may be deemed necessary for the present and future needs and welfare of the schools.

When the meeting was opened at 9 o'clock there was present a fair number of school directors, superintendents and principals and others interested in school work, representing Blair, Huntingdon and other counties. Dr. Schaffer, the president of the commission, was in the chair, and after calling the meeting to order briefly stated the object of the meeting and then, talking up the list of topics, called on Dr. A. S. Strayer, to take up the subject of "Vaccination."

The next topic taken up was "The Teaching of Agriculture in Schools." which was opened by Dr. Frank Beck, who said that agriculture preceeded all ot her occupantions, and at the present time in this country exceeds in value all other lines of industry: hence it is of great importance.

Professor Robb spoke on the subject of "High Schools." The law is defective in not allowing children from a township to attend a city or borough high school. There should be a uniform course of study throughout the state, as the lack of uniformity is a great disadvantage to children moving from one school district to another. Certain studies should be elective, as industrial training in a city like Altoona, or agricultural instruction in rural schools. The main work of the high school should be to prepare the pupil for actual life work and not for college.

At the afternoon session the subject of school playgrounds and manual trainng were discussed.

At 7 o'clock in the evening the workshops were thrown open to the public and also the directors' room in which there was a large and varied display of mechanical drawings, sketchings, paintings, needlework. wood work, metal work, etc., done in the various grades of the industrial department.

At the evening session J. W. Creighton, general superintendent of the Pennsylvania railroad spoke. He dwelt upon the great change in the last 25 years along industrial lines and machinery now doing with marvelous rapidity the work formerly done by hand, instead of this being a disadvantage to the working man it has opened greater opportunities for him.

Dr. Nathan C, Shaffer spoke of the struggle and opposition of the public school system since its inception in 1834.

The last speaker for the evening was Dr. M. G. Brumbaugh, of Philadelphia, who gave a masterly address, dwelling upon the duty of taking proper care of every child born in to the world in ignorance and of training and instructing it aright.

ANGLERS WANT NEW TROUT LAW

Agitation for a Reduction In One Day's Catch

WANT SMALLER LIMIT

Undersized Beauties Thrown Back into the Water—Do Not Often Survive From Their Injuries

LOCAL STREAMS ARE FISHED HARD

Trout fishermen all over the country are expressing disapproval of the new law, which makes it a misdemeanor to catch and keep a trout under six inches in length. It is claimed that in most streams many trout are landed that are below the required length, but that in hooking them they are in most cases badly injured and likely to die afterwards from the effects of their injuries. Prominent sportsmen say that they would rather the limit in numbers would be 25 trout and the size limit under six inches. They believe that under such a law less trout would be destroyed.

Many fishermen who whip the mountain streams in this section of the state say that if a limit of 50 trout is maintained in a few years all of the large trout will have been caught and the state will either have to prohibit fishing for a few years or anglers will be obliged to content themselves with small fish. The fry that are growing each year will likely be landed by anglers before they reach a large size. The natives along the streams catch the most fish. They know the streams better than a stranger.

Along most of the well known streams each day since the season opened there have been dozens of fishermen. Some have caught all the law permits; others have landed only a few, and a few unfortunates have come home empty handed. However, to supply all there would have to have been an enormous number of trout in the streams. Last Saturday there were 25 fishermen along McElhattan creek in a three-mile stretch. Other streams are fished equally as hard. Many anglers have landed 50 in one day. In numerous instances a party of several men landed several hundred trout in a few days—considerably more than they could use themselves. Therein lies the harm of the 50-limit clause in the new law. Men who seek the protection of the beauties may agitate a reduction in the number of fish for a day's catch.—News.

COMMON SENSE

Leads most intelligent people to use only medicines of known composition. Therefore it is that Dr. Pierce's medicines, the makers of which print every ingredient entering into them upon the bottle wrappers and attest its correctness under oath, are daily growing in favor. The composition of Dr. Pierce's medicines is open to everybody. Dr. Pierce being desirous of having the search light of investigation turned fully upon his formulæ, being confident that the better the composition of these medicines is known the more will their great curative merits be recognized. Being wholly made of the active medicinal principles extracted from native forest roots, by exact processes original with Dr. Pierce, and without the use of a drop of alcohol, triple-refined and chemically pure glycerine being used instead in extracting and preserving the curative virtues residing in the roots employed, these medicines are entirely free from the objection of doing harm by creating an appetite for either alcoholic beverages or habit-forming drugs. Examine the formula on their bottle wrappers—the same as sworn to by Dr. Pierce, and you will find that his "Golden Medical Discovery," the great, blood-purifier, stomach tonic and bowel regulator—the medicine which, while not recommended to cure consumption in its advanced stages (no medicine will do that) yet does cure all those catarrhal conditions of head and throat, weak stomach, torpid liver and bronchial troubles, weak lungs and hang-on-coughs, which, if neglected or badly treated lead up to and finally terminate in consumption.

Take the "Golden Medical Discovery" in time and it is not likely to disappoint you if only you give it a thorough and fair trial. Don't expect miracles. It won't do supernatural things. You must exercise your patience and persevere in its use for a reasonable length of time to get its full benefits. The ingredients of which Dr. Pierce's medicines are composed have the unqualified endorsement of scores of medical leaders—better than any amount of lay, or non-professional, testimonials. They are not given away to be experimented with but are sold by all dealers in medicines at reasonable prices.

GOING SOME.

The through express,
The Pullman train,
May cause us to
At times complain
At service poor
Or at delay,
But it beats walking
Anyway.

The engine smoke
May fill our eyes
And grime our coats
And soil our ties.
Still, sitting on
The jolty seat
Does not raise corns
Upon our feet.

Of course we like
To kick about
The service on
This special route.
The hearer then,
We are, will guess,
Sophisticated
More or less.

And so we sit
And raise a roar
To show that we
Are good and sore.
About the service
Poor we talk,
But never do
Get off and walk.

Women might be quieter if they wouldn't talk so much, but they wouldn't be nearly so amusing.

The only objection to laziness, or, at least, the greatest, is that it is so all pervading.

What a woman sees to marvel at in a baby is the thought that the little darling can and will grow up to be just a man.

Tomorrow may be able to take care of itself, but it isn't likely that it will bother about taking care of you.

Did you ever notice that the man who knows it all and the man who wants to know never by any happy chance meet?

The reason why some women don't marry is undoubtedly because they never have found a dependable firm that sends husbands out on approval.

We have often wondered if free speech is really on the free list.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

I. O. O. F. Burns Merigage.

Pennsvalley Lodge No. 276 I. O. O. F. at Pine Grove Mills held a sort of a glad tidings session last Saturday evening in their new hall. The occasion was a mortgage burning affair. After the regular session the members and their lady friends adjourned to the dining hall where the good ladies had prepared a sumptous feast which was heartily enjoyed by all. Capt. W. H. Fry was chosen master of ceremonies and briely recalled the long struggle that had just recently culminated so favorably.

Rev. Ralph Bergstresser graced the table. John G. Heberling, the senior member gave a brief history of the lodge and its work. The lodge was instituted Nov. 11, 1848. The old fathers have all answered the last roll call. Among the charter members are the Mitchells, Johnsons, Leobes, Erbs, Smiths, Burchfields and Dunlaps. On the roll are 300 names but 80 are in good standing. In 1901 the lodge decided to build a 60 by 30, 2 story building at a cost of $3500 and with but a light fund on hand. W. B. Ward was the contractor and builder. It was just as the dial pointed to 10 p. m., the chairman ordered the trustees to consign to the blaze, the mortgage, when the chairman in behalf of the trustees and the lodge, expressed their sincere thanks for former aid, also to the citizens for their patronage at various times when there were darker days. Watson Campbell of Kansas was present and was the first speaker. He said that after an absence of 22 years he had the pleasure of seeing the advancement of the Pennsvalley Lodge to one of the best in the county. Rev. Philips spoke of the object lesson and the good work of the order. He was followed by Rev. Bergstresser along the same lines and thought, every town and village was the better for having an Odd Fellows Lodge. A number of the members took part in speech making.

It was 11 30 o'clock when the chairman called a halt and thanked the ladies for their aid in making the affair a success, also Dr. Krebs and his committee. It was indeed the social event of the season and will long be remembered by all who had the pleasure of being present.

Rev. Woodcock Installed

Tuesday evening Rev. J. R. Woodcock was installed as pastor of the Presbyterian church at Birmingham, Blair county. The auditorium was comfortably filled with members of the congregation, teachers and students of the Birmingham school for girls. Rev. H. L. Bowlby, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Altoona had charge of the installation services. The sermon was preached by Rev. George T. Gunter, pastor of the Tyrone Presbyterian church. Rev. Walter Harnish of the Lemont church, made the installation prayer and charge to the congregation, urging them to co-operate with their pastor and pointing out how they may aid him in his work. The service was closed with the benediction by the newly installed pastor.

Rev. Woodcock was a former resident of Bellefonte and is well known to many of our citizens.

Look Out For This Chap.

A fellow who arrived in town last week and registered at several hotels under different names, is wanted by the Lock Haven police, for it is alleged he is working a swindling game among the women folks, which proved quite successful here. The chap represented himself as an agent of Rogally & Co., of Gloversville, N. Y., a well known firm who manufacture gloves, and took orders for repairing and cleaning old gloves. As an evidence of good faith, he demanded and secured half the price of the order at once, the remainder to be paid on delivery of the goods. A large number of women on Water, Mill and Vesper streets gave up sums ranging from $1 to $2 each. One of the victims becoming suspicious, wrote a letter of inquiry to the Gloversville firm, and by return mail received a reply informing her that the individual in question was an impositer and had no connection whatever with their firm, but that at one time he had been in their employ. The writer was advised to have the swindler arrested and she notified the police, but he evidently has skipped to other parts.—Democrat.

Opening Of The Season.

The other day one of our business men took two of his daughters and son out fishing. The fishing business was moving rather slowly, and the young ladies meandered up along the hillside in search of arbutus. Very unexpectedly they came across a large snake. First they thought it was a rattle snake, and were very much frightened. Their courage came back, and picking up stones they drew a little nearer and hurled them at the reptile. One of the missiles hit the snake and evidently broke its back. It attempted to crawl away, and did manage to get into a hole. Its tail, however, protruded a little and one of the young ladies had the courage to grab hold of the same and pulled his snakeship out of his hiding place. By this time it was nearly dead, and was easily subdued. It proved to be a blacksnake, and was nearly five feet in length. The ladies took their trophy and laid it at the feet of their father, as an evidence of their undaunted bravery.—Philipsburg Journal.

Students Banquet at Lock Haven

Thirty students juniors and seniors in the department of chemistry at State College, were tendered a banquet at Lock Haven Wednesday evening in the vacant room at No. 139 East Main street. The spread was given by Dr. George Gilbert Pond, professor of chemistry in that institution. The tables were tastefully arranged and B. C. Achenbach & Son were the caterers for the occasion, which proved to be one of good cheer and fellowship. The students were in charge of two instructors, who had the class on a trip to Pittsburg and Buffalo, Bradford and Ridgway, and were given some practical work in this branch. Prof. Pond arrived from State College during the afternoon and the student body at 6 o'clock from Ridgway.—Express.

Vain Regrets.

Woe

Too late I see
Where I missed it.
Still
I will
Say that it is not
The first time in my life
That vain regrets
Have sat around
On the doorstep
Looking at me

Because my hind sight

Had I been wise
And known a thing or two,
Or even
Not so many as that,
I should have enlisted
In the late war.
What war?
You ask.
And how late?
The war with Japan,
I reply.
But, you say,
There was no war.
True enough.
That is how

At no cost at all
I overlooked!
Had I known
It wasn't coming
I would have been the first
To enlist.
Poor chump that I am,
I missed glory
By not volunteering
In the war that was never fought.

The Glory of Life.

The human race is still in its infancy. Up to the present moment, with a few grand exceptions, man has lived mostly an animal existence. The brute is only partially educated out of him. He has not yet evolved that superb character, that diviner man, foreshadowed in the beast. How few people ever get anything more than a mere glimpse of the true glory of life! Few of us see any real sentiment in life or anything above the real animal existence and animal pleasures. Most of us look upon our occupation as a disagreeable necessity that somehow or other ought to have been and might have been avoided. The trouble with many of us is that we think too meanly of ourselves. Our sordid aims and material, selfish ambitions have so lowered our standards that we think downward instead of upward; we grovel instead of soaring. Our lives are materialistic, selfish, greedy, because we live in the base of our brains, down among the brute faculties. We have never explored to any great extent the upper regions of our brain, never developed our higher intelligence.—Success Magazine.

A Courteous Pirate.

That even a Chinese pirate may have a strong idea of chivalry is proved by the following excerpt from an item in the North China Daily News: "The launch at once stopped when ordered to do so. The leader of the pirates was then heard to order his men that they were not to molest any one on board who voluntarily handed over his or her valuables. Among the passengers, however, were a father and son, the latter of whom, it seemed, was a little too slow in obeying the pirates' order to hand over his money, with the result that he was shot. Upon hearing the shot the pirate chief, who was on deck, came down into the cabin and, seeing the father of the unlucky young man lamenting over his son's death, addressed the old man and condoled with him on his son's unfortunate and 'undeserved' death. The chief finally brought out of his pocket a roll of $50 and handed the sum to the old man as a solatium, bidding him to refrain from further lamentations."

A Dangerous Feat.

For a feat of dexterity and nerve it would be difficult to surpass that of the Bosjesman of South Africa, who walks quietly up to a puff adder and deliberately sets his bare foot on its neck. In its struggles to escape and attempts to bite its assailant the poison gland secretes a large amount of the venom. This is just what the Bosjesman wants. Killing the snake, he eats the body and uses the poison for his arrows.

THE FARMER'S WIFE

Is very careful about her churn. She scalds it thoroughly after using, and gives it a sun bath to sweeten it. She knows that if her churn is sour it will taint the butter that is made in it. The stomach is a churn. In the stomach and digestive and nutritive tracts are performed processes which are almost exactly like the churning of butter. Is it not apparent then that if this stomach-churn is foul it makes foul all which is put into it?

The evil of a foul stomach is not alone the bad taste in the mouth and the foul breath caused by it, but the corruption of the pure current of blood and the dissemination of disease throughout the body. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes the sour and foul stomach sweet. It does for the stomach what the washing and sun bath do for the churn—absolutely removes every tainting or corrupting element. In this way it cures blotches, pimples, eruptions, scrofulous swellings, sores, or open eating ulcers and all humors or diseases arising from bad blood.

To aid in healing old sores, or ulcers, apply Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve to them while taking the "Golden Medical Discovery" to purify and enrich the blood.

Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve is cleansing and pain relieving. It destroys the bad odors arising from suppurating, or running, sores and puts them in the best possible condition for healing.

The "All-Healing Salve" is a superior dressing for all open, running, or suppurating, Sores or Ulcers. For healing open wounds, cuts and scratches it is unsurpassed.

If your medicine dealer does not have the "All-Healing Salve" in stock mail 50 cents in postage stamps to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and you will receive it by return post.

In treating all open sores, or ulcers, boils carbuncles and other swellings, it is important that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery be taken persistently to purify the blood and thereby remove the cause of the trouble. It is in the blood that the great battle of health has to be fought. The ulcer and the sore are simply the scarlet flowers of disease, with roots running down into the blood. These roots must be eradicated or the disease will break out afresh. "Golden Medical Discovery" cleanses the blood of all foul and poisonous accumulations, pushes out the dead and waste matter, and thus purifies the entire life current. Disease in the flesh must die out when it is no longer fed by foul blood. "Golden Medical Discovery" effectively cures disease in the flesh by curing its cause in the blood.

If you have bitter, nasty, foul taste in your mouth, coated tongue, foul breath, are weak and easily tired, feel depressed and despondent, have frequent headaches, dizzy attacks, gnawing or distress in stomach, constipated or irregular bowels, sour or bitter rising after eating and poor appetite, these symptoms, or any considerable number of them, indicate that you are suffering from biliousness, torpid, or lazy liver with the usual accompanying indigestion, or dyspepsia and its attendant derangements.

The best agents known to medical science for the cure of the above symptoms and conditions, as attested by the writings of leading teachers and practitioners of all the schools of medical practice, have been skillfully and harmoniously combined in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. That this is absolutely true will be readily proven to your satisfaction if you will but mail a postal card request to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for a free copy of his booklet of extracts from the standard medical authorities, giving the names of all the ingredients entering into his world-famed medicines and showing what the most eminent medical men of the age say of them.

Cures Woman's Weaknesses.

We refer to that boon to weak, nervous, suffering women known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Dr. John Fyfe one of the Editoral staff of THE ECLECTIC MEDICAL REVIEW says of Unicorn root (Helonias Dioica) which is one of the chief ingredients of the "Favorite Prescription": "A remedy which invariably acts as a uterine invigorator * * * makes for normal activity of the entire reproductive system." He continues "in Helonias we have a medicament which more fully answers the above purposes than any other drug with which I am acquainted. In the treatment of diseases peculiar to women it is seldom that a case is seen which does not present some indication for this remedial agent." Dr. Fyfe further says: "The following are among the leading indications for Helonias (Unicorn root). Pain or aching in the back, with leucorrhea; atonic (weak) conditions of the reproductive organs of women, mental depression and irritability, associated with chronic diseases of the reproductive organs of women; constant sensation of heat in the region of the kidneys; menorrhagia (flooding), due to a weakened condition of the reproductive system; amenorrhea (suppressed or absent monthly periods), arising from or accompanying an abnormal condition of the digestive organs and anemic (thin blood) habit; dragging sensations in the extreme lower part of the abdomen."

If more or less of the above symptoms are present, no invalid woman can do better than take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, one of the leading ingredients of which is Unicorn root, or Helonias, and the medical properties of which it most faithfully represents.

Of Golden Seal root another prominent ingredient of "Favorite Prescription," Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Medical College, Chicago, says: "It is an important remedy in disorders of the womb. In all catarrhal conditions * * * and general enfeeblement, it is useful."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription faithfully represents the above named ingredients and cures the diseases for which they are recommended.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the original Little Liver Pills, first put up by old Dr. Pierce over 40 years ago. Much imitated, but never equaled. Easy to take as candy.

PRESIDENT SENDS MESSAGE

Special Document to Congress Urges Enactment of Certain Measures.

"CLASS CONSCIOUSNESS" EVIL.

Government. Not States. Should Control Large Corporations.

POSTAL BANKS ADVOCATED.

Contempt For Honesty While Seeking Profit Is Scored—Limit Should Be Placed on Labor Injunctions—The Strengthening of Antitrust Law Demanded—States Cannot Control National Commerce—Legitimate Combinations Should Be Permitted—Interest of Both Decent Corporations and Lawabiding Labor Unions at Heart—Exemptions of Unions From Operations of Incorporation Law Declared Unconstitutional — The "Boston Agreement."

Washington, April 27.—The president sent the following message to congress today:

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

In my message to the congress of March 25, 1908, I outlined certain measures which I believe the majority of our countrymen desire to have enacted into law at this time. These measures do not represent by any means all that I would like to see done if I thought it possible, but they do represent what I believe can now be done if an earnest effort toward this end is made.

Employers' Liability Act.

Since I wrote this message an employers' liability law has been enacted which, it is true, comes short of what ought to have been done, but which does represent a real advance. Apparently there is good ground to hope that there will be further legislation providing for recompensing all employees who suffer injury while engaged in the public service; that there will be a child labor law enacted for the District of Columbia; that the waterways commission will be continued, with sufficient financial support to increase the effectiveness of its preparatory work; that steps will be taken to provide for such investigation into tariff conditions by the appropriate committee of the house of representatives and by government experts in the executive service as will secure the full information necessary for immediate action in revising the tariff at the hands of the congress elected next fall, and, finally, that financial legislation will be enacted providing for temporary measures for meeting any trouble that may arise in the next year or two, and for a commission of experts who shall thoroughly investigate the whole matter, both here and in the great commercial countries abroad, so as to be able to recommend legislation which will put our financial system on an efficient and permanent basis. It is much to be wished that one feature of the financial legislation of this session should be the establishment of postal savings banks. Ample appropriations should be made to enable the interstate commerce commission to carry out the very important feature of the Hepburn law which gives to the commission supervision and control over the accounting systems of the railways.

Benefit to Corrupt Railways.

Failure to provide means which will enable the commission to examine the books of the railways would amount to an attack on the law at its most vital point, and would benefit, as nothing else could benefit, those railways which are corruptly or incompetently managed. Forest reserves should be established throughout the Appalachian mountain region wherever it can be shown that they will have direct and real connection with the conservation and improvement of navigable rivers.

There seems, however, much doubt about two of the measures I have recommended: The measure to do away with abuse of the power of injunction and the measure or group of measures to strengthen and render both more efficient and more wise the control by the national government over the great corporations doing an interstate business.

First, as to the power of injunction and of punishment for contempt. In contempt cases, save where immediate action is imperative, the trial should be before another judge. As regards injunctions, some such legislation as that I have previously recommended should be enacted. They are blind who fail to realize the extreme bitterness caused among large bodies of worthy citizens by the use that has been repeatedly made of the power of injunction in labor disputes.

Limiting Labor Injunctions.

Those in whose judgment we have most right to trust are of the opinion that while much of the complaint against the use of the injunction is unwarranted, yet that it is unquestionably true that in a number of cases this power has been used to the grave injury of the rights of laboring men. I ask that it be limited in some such way as that I have already pointed out in my previous messages, for the very reason that I do not wish to see an embittered effort made to destroy it. It is unwise stubbornly to refuse to provide against a repetition of the abuses which have caused the present unrest. In a democracy like ours it is idle to expect permanently to thwart the determination of the great body of our citizens. It may be and often is the highest duty of a court, a legislature or an executive to resist and defy a gust of popular passion, and most certainly no public servant, whatever may be the consequences to himself, should yield to what he thinks wrong. But in a question which is emphatically one of public policy, the policy which the public demands is sure in the end to be adopted, and a persistent refusal to grant to a large portion of our people what is right is only too apt in the end to result in causing such irritation that when the right is obtained it is obtained in the course of a movement so ill considered and violent as to be accompanied by much that is wrong.

The process of injunction in labor disputes as well as where state laws are involved should be used sparingly and only when there is the clearest necessity for it. But it is one so necessary to the efficient performance of duty by the court on behalf of the nation that it is in the highest degree to be regretted that it should be liable to reckless use, for this reckless use tends to make honest men desire so to hamper its execution as to destroy its usefulness.

"Class Consciousness" Evil.

Every farsighted patriot should protest first of all against the growth in this country of that evil thing which is called "class consciousness." The demagogue, the sinister or foolish Socialist visionary who strives to arouse this feeling of class consciousness in our working people does a foul and evil thing, for he is no true American, he is no self respecting citizen of this republic. He forfeits his right to stand with manly self reliance on a footing of entire equality with all other citizens, who bows to envy and greed, who erects the doctrine of class hatred into a shibboleth, who substitutes loyalty to men of a particular status, whether rich or poor, for loyalty to those eternal and immutable principles of righteousness which bid us treat each man on his worth as a man without regard to his wealth or his poverty.

But evil though the influence of these demagogues and visionaries is, it is no worse in its consequences than the influence exercised by the man of great wealth or the man of power and position in the industrial world who by his lack of sympathy with and lack of understanding of, still more by any exhibition of uncompromising hostility to, the millions of our working people tends to unite them against their fellow Americans who are better off in this world's goods. It is a bad thing to teach our working people that men of means, that men who have the largest proportion of the substantial comforts of life, are necessarily greedy, grasping and cold hearted and that they unjustly demand and appropriate more than their share of the substance of the many. Stern condemnation should be visited upon demagogue and visionary who teach this untruth, and even sterner upon those capitalists who are in truth grasping and greedy and brutally disregardful of the rights of others and who by their actions teach the dreadful lesson far more effectively than any mere preacher of unrest. A "class grievance" left too long without remedy breeds "class consciousness" and therefore class resentment.

Strengthening of Antitrust Law.

The strengthening of the antitrust law is demanded upon both moral and economic grounds. Our purpose in strengthening it is to secure more effective control by the national government over the business use of the vast masses of individual, and especially of corporate wealth, which at the present time monopolize most of the interstate business of the country, and we believe the control can best be exercised by preventing the growth of abuses rather than merely by trying to destroy them when they have already grown. In the highest sense of the word this movement for thorough control of the business use of this great wealth is conservative. We are trying to steer a safe middle course, which alone can save us from a plutocratic class government on the one hand or a socialistic class government on the other, either of which would be fraught with disaster to our free institutions, state and national. We are trying to avoid alike the evils which would flow from government ownership of the public utilities, by which interstate commerce is chiefly carried on, and the evils which flow from the riot and chaos of unrestricted individualism. There is grave danger to our free institutions in the corrupting influence exercised by great wealth suddenly concentrated in the hands of the few. We should in sane manner try to remedy this danger in spite of the sullen opposition of these few very powerful men and with the full purpose to protect them in all their rights at the very time that we require them to deal rightfully with others. When with steam and electricity modern business conditions went through the astounding revolution which in this country began over half a century ago there was at first much hesitation as to what particular governmental agency should be used to grapple with the new conditions. At almost the same time, about twenty years since, the effort was made to control combinations by regulating them through the interstate commerce commission and to abolish them by means of the antitrust act, the two remedies therefore being in part mutually incompatible. The interstate commerce law has produced admirable results, especially since it was strengthened by the Hepburn law two years ago. The antitrust law, though it worked some good, because anything is better than anarchy and complete absence of regulation, nevertheless has proved in many respects not merely inadequate, but mischievous. Twenty years ago the menace of corporate power had produced almost every conceivable form of abuse and had worked the gravest injury to business morality and the public conscience. For a long time federal regulation of interstate commerce had been purely negative, the national judiciary merely acting in isolated cases to restrain the state from exercising a power which it was clearly unconstitutional as well as unwise for them to exercise, but which nevertheless the national government itself failed to exercise. Thus the corporations monopolizing commerce made the law for themselves, state power and common law being inadequate to accomplish any effective regulation and the national power not yet having been put forth. The result was mischievous in the extreme and only shortsighted and utter failure to appreciate the grossness of the evils to which the lack of regulation gave rise can excuse the well meaning persons who now desire to abolish the antitrust law outright or to amend it by simply condemning "unreasonable" combinations.

To Permit Combinations.

Power should unquestionably be lodged somewhere in the executive branch of the government to permit combinations which will further the public interest, but it must always be remembered that as regards the great and wealthy combinations through which most of the interstate business of today is done the burden of proof should be on them to show that they have a right to exist. No judicial tribunal has the knowledge or the experience to determine in the first place whether a given combination is advisable or necessary in the interest of the public. Somebody, whether a commission or a bureau under the department of commerce and labor, should be given this power. My personal belief is that ultimately we shall have to adopt a national incorporation law, though I am well aware that this may be impossible at present. Over the actions of the executive body in which the power is placed the courts should possess merely a power of review analogous to that obtaining in connection with the work of the interstate commerce commission at present. To confer this power would not be a leap in the dark, it would merely be to carry still further the theory of effective governmental control of corporations which was responsible for the creation of the interstate commerce commission and for the enlargement of its powers and for the creation of the bureau of corporations.

The interstate commerce legislation has worked admirably. It has benefited the public. It has benefited honestly managed and wisely conducted railroads, and in spite of the fact that the business of the country has enormously increased, the value of this federal legislation has been shown by the way in which it has enabled the federal government to correct the most pronounced of the great and varied abuses which existed in the business world twenty years ago, while the many abuses that still remain emphasize the need of further and more thorough going legislation. Similarly the bureau of corporations has amply justified its creation. In other words, it is clear that the principles employed to remedy the great evils in the business world have worked well, and they can now be employed to correct the evils that further commercial growth has brought more prominently to the surface. The powers and scope of the interstate commerce commission and of any similar body, such as the bureau of corporations, which has to deal with the matter in hand, should be greatly enlarged so as to meet the requirements of the present day.

States and National Commerce.

The decisions of the supreme court in the Minnesota and North Carolina cases illustrates how impossible is a dual control of national commerce. The states cannot control it. All they can do is to control interstate commerce, and this now forms but a small fraction of the commerce carried by the railroads through each state. Actual experience has shown that the effort at state control is sure to be nullified in one way or another sooner or later. The nation alone can act with effectiveness and wisdom. It should have the control both of the business and of the agent by which the business is done, for any attempt to separate this control must result in grotesque absurdity. This means that we must rely upon national legislation to prevent the commercial abuses that now exist and the others that are sure to arise unless some efficient governmental body has adequate power of control over them. At present the failure of the congress to utilize and exercise the great powers conferred upon it as regards interstate commerce leaves this commerce to be regulated not by the state nor yet by the congress, but by the occasional and necessarily inadequate and one sided action of the federal judiciary. However upright and able a court is it cannot act constructively. It can only act negatively or destructively as an agency of government. And this means that the courts are and must always be unable to deal effectively with a problem like the present, which requires constructive action. A court can decide what is faulty, but it has no power to make better what it thus finds to be faulty. There should be an efficient executive body created with power enough to correct abuses and scope enough to work the complex problems that this great country has developed. It is not sufficient objection to say that such a body may be guilty of unwisdom or of abuses. Any governmental body, whether a court or a commission, whether executive, legislative or judicial, if given power enough to enable it to do effective work for good must also inevitably receive enough power to make it possible effective for evil.

Therefore it is clear that (unless a national incorporation law can be forthwith enacted) some body or bodies in the executive service should be given power to pass upon any combination or agreement in relation to interstate commerce, and every such combination or agreement not thus approved should be treated as in violation of law and prosecuted accordingly. The issuance of the securities of any combination doing interstate business should be under the supervision of the national government.

Question of Constitutionality.

A strong effort has been made to have labor organizations completely exempted from any of the operations of this law, whether or not their acts are in restraint of trade. Such exception would in all probability make the bill unconstitutional, and the legislature has no more right to pass a bill without regard to whether it is constitutional than the courts have lightly to declare unconstitutional a law which the legislature has solemnly enacted. The responsibility is as great on the one side as the other, and an abuse of power by the legislature in one direction is equally to be condemned with an abuse of power by the courts in the other direction. It is not possible wholly to except labor organizations from the workings of this law, and they who insist upon totally excepting them are merely providing that their status shall be kept wholly unchanged and that they shall continue to be exposed to the action which they now dread. Obviously an organization not formed for profit should not be required to furnish statistics in any way as complete as those furnished by organizations for profit. Moreover, so far as labor is engaged in production only, its claims to be exempted from the antitrust law are sound. This would substantially cover the rights of laborers to combine, to strike peaceably and to enter into trade agreements with the employers. But when labor undertakes in a wrongful manner to prevent the distribution and sale of the products of labor, as by certain forms of the boycott, it has left the field of production, and its action may plainly be in restraint of interstate trade and must necessarily be subject to inquiry, exactly as in the case of any other combination for the same purpose, so as to determine whether such action is contrary to sound public policy. The heartiest encouragement should be given to the wage workers to form labor unions and to enter into agreements with their employers, and their right to strike so long as they act peaceably must be preserved. But we should sanction neither a boycott nor a blacklist, which would be illegal at common law.

Measures of Double Interest.

The measures I advocate are in the interest both of decent corporations and of lawabiding labor unions. They are moreover pre-eminently in the interest of the public, for in my judgment the American people have definitely made up their minds that the days of the reign of the great law defying and law evading corporations are over and that from this time on the mighty organizations of capital necessary for the transaction of business under modern conditions, while encouraged so long as they act honestly and in the interest of the general public, are to be subjected to careful supervision and regulation of a kind so effective as to insure their acting in the interest of the people as a whole.

Allegations are often made to the effect that there is no real need for these laws looking to the more effective control of the great corporations upon the ground that they will do their work well without such control. I call your attention to the accompanying copy of a report just submitted by Mr. Nathan Matthews, chairman of the finance commission, to the mayor and city council of Boston, relating to certain evil practices of various corporations which have been bidders for furnishing to the city iron and steel. This report shows that there have been extensive combinations formed among the various corporations which have business with the city of Boston, including, for instance, a carefully planned combination embracing practically all the firms and corporations engaged in structural steel work in New England. This combination included substantially all the local concerns and many of the largest corporations in the United States engaged in manufacturing or furnishing structural steel for use in any part of New England. It affected the states, the cities and towns, the railroads and street railways, and generally all persons having occasion to use iron or steel for any purpose in that section of the country. As regards the city of Boston, the combination resulted in parceling out the work by collusive bids, plainly dishonest and supported by false affirmations. In its conclusion the commission recommends as follows:

The commission believes that an example should be made of these men and that the members of the "Boston agreement," or at least all those who in October and November, 1905, entered in the fraudulent competitions for the Cove street draw span and the Brookline street bridge should be brought before a federal grand jury for violation of the act of congress of July 2, 1890. The three years' limitation for participation in these transactions has not yet elapsed, and the evidence obtained by the commission is so complete that there should be no difficulty in the government's securing a conviction in this case. To this end I have submitted this report to the department of justice for thorough investigation and for action, if action shall prove practicable.

Surely such a state of affairs as that above set forth emphasizes the need of further federal legislation not merely because of the material benefits such legislation will secure, but, above all, because this federal action should be part, and a large part, of the campaign to waken our people as a whole to a lively and effective condemnation of the low standard of morality implied in such conduct on the part of great business concerns. The first duty of every man is to provide a livelihood for himself and for those dependent upon him. It is from every standpoint desirable that each of our citizens should endeavor by hard work and honorable methods to secure for him and his such a competence as will carry with it the opportunity to enjoy in reasonable fashion the comforts and refinements of life, and furthermore, the man of great business ability who obtains a fortune in upright fashion inevitably in so doing confers a benefit upon the community as a whole and is entitled to reward, to respect and to admiration.

Moral Meaning of Methods.

Comment on the moral meaning of these methods and transactions would seem superfluous, but as they were defended at the public hearings of the commission and asserted to be common and entirely proper incidents of business life, and as these practices have been freely resorted to by some of the largest industrial corporations that the world has ever known, the commission deems it proper to record its own opinion.

The "Boston Agreement."

The commission dislikes to believe that these practices are, as alleged, established by the general custom of the business community, and this defense itself if unchallenged amounts to a grave accusation against the honesty of present business methods. To answer an invitation for public or private work by sending in what purports to be genuine bids, but what in reality are collusive figures purposely made higher than the bid which is known will be submitted by one of the supposed competitors, is an act of plain dishonesty.

To support these misrepresentations by false affirmations in writing that the bids are submitted in good faith and without fraud, collusion or connection with any other bidder is a positive and deliberate fraud, the successful bidder in the competition is guilty of obtaining money by false pretenses and the others have made themselves parties to a conspiracy clearly unlawful at the common law. Where, as in the case of the "Boston agreement," a number of the most important manufacturers and dealers in structural steel in this country, including the American Bridge company, one of the constituent members of the United States Steel corporation, have combined together for the purpose of raising prices by means of collusive bids and false representations, their conduct is not only repugnant to common honesty, but is plainly obnoxious to the federal statute known as the Sherman or antitrust law.

Contempt For Honesty.

But among the many kinds of evil, social, industrial and political, which is our duty as a nation sternly to combat, there is none at the present time more base and more dangerous than the greed which treats the plain and simple rules of honesty with cynical contempt if they interfere with making a profit, and as a nation we cannot be held guiltless if we condone such action. The man who preaches hatred of wealth honestly acquired, who inculcates envy and jealousy and slanderous ill will toward these of his fellows who by thrift, energy and industry have become men of means is a menace to the community. But his counterpart in evil is to be found in that particular kind of multimillionaire who is almost the least enviable and is certainly one of the least admirable of all our citizens, a man of whom it has been well said that his face has grown hard and cruel while his body has grown soft, whose son is a fool and his daughter a foreign princess, whose nominal pleasures are at best those of a tasteless and extravagant luxury and whose real delight, whose real life work, is the accumulation and use of power in its most sordid and least elevating form. In the chaos of an absolutely unrestricted commercial individualism under modern conditions this is a type that becomes prominent as inevitably as the marauder baron became prominent in the physical chaos of the dark ages. We are striving for legislation to minimize the abuses which give this type its flourishing prominence, partly for the sake of what can be accomplished by the legislation itself and partly because the legislation marks our participation in a great and stern moral movement to bring our ideals and our conduct into measurable accord.

A Scotch Excuse.

A celebrated Scottish lawyer had to address the Caledonian equivalent of our supreme court. His "pleading" occupied an entire day. After seven hours of almost continuous oratory he went home and at supper was asked to conduct family worship. As he was exhausted his devotions were brief.

"I am ashamed of ye," said the old mother. "To think ye could talk for seeven hoors up at the court and dismiss your Maker in seeven minutes."

"Aweel, mither," was the reply. "But ye maun admit that the Lord isna sae dull in the uptak as thae judge bodies."

Mrs. Dave Lucas, Mrs. Alex. Black Miss Lottie Miller, Henry Bowes and Jacob Beightol, were some of the friends who attended the funeral of Wm. Bowes and stopped a few minutes in our midst to greet friends.

Rev. Platts of Bellefonte, preached a very able and inspiring sermon in the Presbyterian church on Sunday which was listened to by a large congregation.

The remains of William Bowes, a former resident of Pine Glen, lately of Clearfield, was brought to this place on Tuesday for burial in the Askey cemetery. The body was accompanied by a host of friends among which were many who were once residents of Moshannon.

Work is being done on our roads to a greater extent than ever this spring, and the new supervisors are going at it with vim and vigor which indicates that we will have roads that will far surpass any heretofore. Snow Shoe township is not behind in the way of good road making. Many dollars are being expended each year on road improvement so that we now have roads equal to any in the county.

A very interesting and amusing entertainment was given on our streets one evening last week, in the nature of a bear dance. Three healthy looking Frenchmen, having with them one hog and one mammoth bear, after collecting a small sum of money (enough to warrant the dance) proceeded to exhibit their "Teddy Bears" in a very amusing manner which was certainly enjoyed by the children and some of the older persons. One of the particular feats which was played, was to "rida dee stick just the same like dee girls and boys rida the bicycle." This was almost the limit, for the similarity was far from evident. However, it brough to the mind of the writer the time when a broom stick was a good substitute for a horse.

Miss Mabel Williamson, has returned to her home near Kylertown, after spending the winter with her grand parents at this place.

Rev. M. C. Piper preached an able and interesting sermon Sunday morning to the members or the Bald Eagle Lodge No. 410 I. O. O. F. His text was the latter part of the 5th verse of the 16th chapter of Luke. The choir rendered some fine music for the occasion under the supervision of L. T. Eddy.

Wake up, wake up, what can be done to assemble the Boys Brigade for Memorial day. They can be furnished rifles for about $7.00. Some one make a proposition to raise the amount. Toner Hugg will drill the boys and have them ready for Decoration day. It is worthy of a trial.

Any one having gardens to dig will do well to apply to Isaac Murray. He will give strict attention to that business.

WOMEN WHO BELIEVE IN PERUNA

Honest Women Who Are Not Afraid to Tell the Truth About Pe-ru-na.

Since I have used Peruna I have a splendid appetite, enjoy life and perfect health.

MRS. F. E. HENDERSON

Caught Cold Easily.

Mrs. F. E. Henderson, 221 Ninth St., Milwaukee, Wis., writes:

"I never had any faith in patent medicines until I tried Peruna, but my experience with this reliable medicine has taught me that there is one which can be trusted, and which will not fail in time of need.

"For the past few years I have found that I caught cold easily, which would settle in a most unpleasant catarrh of the head. I had to be especially careful about being out of evenings, and not to get chilled when dressed thin for parties, but since I have used Peruna my general health is improved, and my system is in such good condition that even though I am exposed to inclement weather it no longer affects me.

"I have a splendid appetite and enjoy life, being in perfect health."

Pe-ru-na Tablets.

For two years Dr. Hartman and his assistants have labored incessantly to create Peruna in tablet form, and their strenuous efforts have just been crowned with success. People who object to liquid medicines can now secure Peruna tablets. These tablets represent the medicinal ingredients of Peruna, and each tablet is equivalent to one average dose.

Mrs. Josephine Holst, 162 E. First St., Portland, Ore., writes that she was troubled seriously with catarrh of the throat, that she used Peruna and was wonderfully helped in two weeks, and in a little over two months her system was rid of all traces of catarrh.

The Value of Health.

Who can set a money value on health? It is absolutely priceless.

No one in good health can fully appreciate what it means to have poor health. The days are long and tedious. The nights horrible and painful. Nothing goes right. Even the mind becomes deranged and injured by continued poor health.

Once liberated from the thraldom of sickness words fail to express the joy and relief.

Peruna has been the means of relieving more women from ill health in the United States than, perhaps, any other medicine.

A multitude of women stand ready to give testimony in favor of Peruna whenever occasion offers.

Dyspepsia Entirely Relieved.

Miss Lillie C. Martin, Shelbyville, Tenn., writes: "Everybody says I look better than I have for two or three years, and I sincerely thank you for your kind advice.

"I believe your treatment has entirely cured me. I can eat anything I want. I believe your remedies will cure any case of indigestion or dyspepsia."

MISS HELEN SAUERBIER

Head and Throat.

Miss Helen Sauerbier, 815 Main St., St. Joseph, Mich., writes:

"Last winter I caught a sudden cold which developed into an unpleasant catarrh of the head and throat, depriving me of my appetite and usual good spirits.

"A friend who had been cured by Peruna advised me to try it and I sent for a bottle at once, and I am glad to say that in three days the phlegm had loosened, and I felt better, my appetite returned and within nine days I was in my usual good health."

L. E. Stover of Millheim was seen in town during the week.

A lazy liver may be only a tired liver, or a starved liver. A stick is all right for the back of a lazy man. But it would be a savage as well as a stupid thing to beat a weary man or a starving man because he lagged in his work. So in treating the lagging liver it is a great mistake to lash it with drastic drugs. In ninety-nine cases out of a hundred a torpid or sluggish liver is but a symptom of an ill-nourished body, whose organs are weary with over work. Let your liver alone. Start with the stomach and its allied organs of digestion and nutrition. Put them in proper working order, and see how quickly your liver will become active and energetic. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has made many marvelous cures of "liver trouble" by its wonderful control of the organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores the normal activity of the stomach, increases the secretions of the blood making glands, cleanses the system from poisonous accumulations, and and so relieves the liver of the burdens imposed upon it by the defection of other organs. Formula printed on wrapper.

Journey's End

By Forbes Dwight.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

The mad gallop up the bridle path ended at the bridge across the little pond. The girl drew rein close to the stone parapet and, calming her restive steed, whose every nerve seemed a-quiver with the excitement of the wild dash, sat quietly on the saddle staring with pensive eyes at the unruffled water below.

Dean ranged his own horse beside the girl's, smiling as he watched the glowing color in her cheeks. All about them the trees flaunted the gorgeous tints of late autumn—scarlet, ocher and more subdued shades blending into a splendid, farreaching vista. The crisp, clear air stirred the blood like wine.

The girl laughed, a trifle uneasily.

"We shouldn't be doing such things," she said severely.

"Of course not," said Dean, with a chuckle. "We should have maintained a staid pace. We should have contented ourselves at the most with a measured trot. It's tremendously wicked the way we smash all the conventions of this park. We'll have a mounted officer on our trail yet. Pleasant prospect that. A glorious gallop, all the same, wasn't it, and well worth the risk of incurring the displeasure of the law?"

"Yes; it was glorious," the girl admitted. "Still, we shouldn't do it."

"That's where half the fun comes in," said he. "Hang their old park and its rules! Do they think we'll limit

"TAKE ME TO YOUR GENTLE OLD CLERGYMAN."

ourselves to a funereal pace such a day as this and with such a pair of steppers?"

"We really ought to," said she.

Dean laughed. It was a pleasant, almost boyish laugh. His big shoulders were squared defiantly.

"The things one ought to do are generally unpleasant," he observed. "Come on. We'll let them out once more."

The girl shook her head.

"No! Oh, no!" she demurred.

"Afraid?" he questioned.

She nodded.

"Of the rules they are pleased to hamper us with in this 2 by 4 plot of grass?"

"No; not of that," she replied. "Afraid of you, I think."

"Of me? Oh, pshaw!"

Again his laugh rang out, but the girl turned to him with a sudden seriousness.

"You make me rather afraid of you at times," she said. "You tempt me to do reckless things. I don't know why it should be so, but it is. I would never in the world have thought of riding here with any one else as I have with you just now, and the strange part of it all is that I enjoy it so immensely."

"Enjoy what?"

"Doing the reckless things you inspire."

Dean leaned toward her quickly.

"I wish it were so," he declared. "I wish I really might inspire you to reckless deeds. I wish I might"—

"Now, please," the girl begged, with heightening color.

"Oh, all right!" said he good naturedly. "I know the subject is tabooed. I'll observe the conventions you've imposed upon me and keep my tongue to the funereal pace."

He sat for a time staring silently into the water. At last he straightened himself in the saddle.

"I'd like another gallop," he remarked, "a wilder one, a madder one. I'd like to get out of this little old park and go somewhere where there's a level stretch of road and no hampering rules of pace."

A light came into the girl's eyes. She threw back her head and gathered up the reins.

"So would I," she declared, a trifle breathlessly.

Dean swung about to face her. There was a quiet smile on his lips.

"Come, then," he said simply.

"We really shouldn't," she objected.

"Come," he repeated.

"I'm afraid when you speak in that fashion."

"Come."

He turned the horse from the bridge and headed for the gate at the farther side of the park. The girl followed silently.

"Where are you going?" she asked as he turned through the gate and made for the road that led into the country.

"To a place where we can let them out to our hearts' content," said he.

Up the road through the afternoon sunshine they went at a sober pace, but once the city was fairly behind them Dean quickened the pace. Faster they went and faster until they were teaming along at a mad gait. Across level stretches and over the low hills they sped. The two horses had caught the spirit of the gallop and tore along at their best pace. The girl's cheeks were glowing; Dean's eyes sparkled with the excitement of it.

They paused finally on the crest of a hill. Far behind them lay the city, its position outlined against the sky by a smudge of blue smoke. Ahead of them lay a ragged line of hills, behind which glowed a sky red with the embers of the sunset.

"Well, that was a ride," said Dean, turning to the girl.

"Wasn't it?" she cried. "But we must be starting back. See, the sun has set. It will be quite dark if we don't hurry."

"I wish I might inspire you with a thorough recklessness," he said.

"You have," she said breathlessly.

"Then let's go just one more mile," he urged.

She hesitated.

"Come," she cried at last.

Down the hill they thundered, across a bridge that spanned a little brook and up the rise on the other side. Again they drew rein. The gorgeous twilight colors were fading. Below them lay a little village, its lights already beginning to twinkle in the gloom.

"Enough recklessness?" said he. "Never! This is just the beginning."

"Now I'm afraid of you again," said she.

"Oh, no, you're not afraid of me," he said, with a strange gentleness. "You're afraid of a few old, time worn conventions. You're afraid of all those plans that have been made for your future—afraid to answer your own heart and go against them. You are afraid of yourself—that you may some time do as you want and thwart your mother's scheming for you. But you're not afraid of me."

She began to tremble.

"We must go back," she cried.

"Look," said he. "Do you see that spire with the cross on it? Well, beside that spire is a little rectory, and in the rectory is a gentle old clergyman. He's watching this road down hill even now. Dorothy, he's expecting us."

"Oh!" she cried, turning her face away.

"Shall we disappoint him?" he asked.

There was a long pause; then without looking at him the girl started her horse down the hill. At the foot of it she stopped and resolutely faced Dean. Her cheeks were burning, but her eyes never faltered.

"I am afraid of you," she said, "because you will always have your way with me. You will rule me as you like, do with me as you please, even as you have done this afternoon. Yes, I am very much afraid of you—but—but—take me to your gentle old clergyman. I am very happy even in my fear."

Maryland Superstitions.

There are superstitions throughout all the counties of Maryland concerning crossroads and running water. Witches are supposed to make their home at the crossing of two roads and to appear there at midnight. One peculiar thing about witches is that they cannot get across running water, and a stream of any sort always acts as a protection to the nightly prowler, who will follow along the bank of a stream in preference to the road. These are some of the things which are more generally believed in the country around Washington and along the Eastern Shore. Some of the articles of the creed of the superstitious in that neighborhood are:

If you sweep your room at night you sweep away your wealth.

Never shake crumbs out of a window after dark. They are supposed to fall into the eyes of the Lord and to disturb the spirits of the dead who wander abroad at night.

Don't wash your hands in water in which eggs have been boiled. You are liable to become covered with warts.—Baltimore Sun.

Precocity and Degeneracy.

Precocity is not always a thing to be desired. Indeed, it may, just as surely as a prematurely ripened fruit indicates decay and early death, mean an early degeneration and loss of mental faculties. By many biologists it is considered an expression of premature senility. As Lombroso has indicated, many of the men of genius were subjects of degeneracy. There is a period of antenatal growth known to scientists as the senile period, embracing the fourth and fifth months of prenatal existence. It has been found that a slight arrest of development at this period is characteristic of the class of beings known as degenerates, and precocity is recognized as one of the expressions of this development defect. Relief de la Bretonne, who composed at fourteen a poem on his first twelve loves, is a remarkable precocity. "A wit of five is a fool of twenty," is an adage founded upon the popular appreciation of this unpleasant truth.—W. A. Newman Dorland in Century.

Not So Bad.

Mr. Subbs (after engaging cook)—There's one other thing I suppose you should know, Miss Flannigan—my wife is a chronic invalid, confined to her room.

Miss Flannigan—That's fine. I was afeerd she might be wan iv thim chronic kickers that ar-re confined t' th' kitchen, begobs!—Puck.

ONLY ONE.

The Record in Bellefonte is a Unique One.

If the reader has a "bad back" or any kidney ill and is looking for relief and cure, better depend on the only remedy endorsed by people you know. Doan's Kidney Pills relieve quickly—cure permanently. Bellefonté citizens testify to this. Here is a case of it:

Mrs: Emma J. Davis of E. Logan St. Bellefonte, Pa. says; I have a great deal of confidence in Doan's Kidney Pills, and have already recommended them in a published testimonial in 1897. I told how I had been relieved of kidney complaint and backache which had kept me suffering for years. Doan's Kidney Pills did this for me when other remedies had failed. Whenever I feel any symptom of my old trouble I send to F. Potts Green's drug store for a supply of Doan's Kidney Pills and it never requires more than a few doses to get me right."

THE WOMAN WHO COUGHED.

Catarrh had nearly ruined me. It had eaten away the partition in my nose; produced Asthma, Bronchitis, Rheumatism; ruined my stomach; in fact, gone all through my system. Then Grip finished me. I was a wreck; took cold at nothing; and coughed day and night. The doctors dosed me with opium and quinine. No good. Cough cures"? Ha! Then Brazilian Balm renovated me. Killed every germ. Took 10 $1.00 bottles. Now I'm like a girl of 18.

FATHER KIDNAPS HIS SON

Man Named O'Brien Creates Considerable Excitement Near Romola

A man named O'Brien, who with his wife formerly resided at Orvis, was the participant in a kidnapping affair that caused considerable excitement in the vicinity of Marsh Creek on Sunday.

For some time there has been an estragment between O'Brien and his wife and he desiring to get one of the children made a successful attempt at about noon that day. He called at the livery stable of S. O. Watts in Lock Haven early that morning and secured a horse and buggy and drove to the home of Joseph Council, his father-in-law on March Creek, about one mile east of Romola. Here he found his wife and two children, one a boy three years of age and the other a girl of two years.

Shortly after a brother of O'Brien's wife with posse of citizens followed and found him at the Miller home. The services of Joseph White, constable of Beech Breek borough were secured and the officer and members of the crowd that followed attempted to arrest O'Brien but they were driven from the house because the constable had no warrant.

Chief of Police McClintock was called up by telephone to be on the lookout for the party. He had no difficulty in locating O'Brien and his child, but since no warrant had been sworn out and there was no specific charge against the man, he declined to interfere and O'Brien was allowed to go free.
